

At Brunello, we're proudly wine freaks.

As a result, our wine list has been awarded 3 goblets from the Australian Wine List of the Year Award.

We proudly use RIEDEL for all our wine and beverage wares for your tasting experience.

We proudly use CORAVIN and ENOMATIC to preserve the quality of our wines to guarantee an amazing tasting experience.

A word from the Sommeliers team...

At Brunello, our goal is balance. We aim to provide a balance between the familiar and the challenging, between encouraging our patrons to try something new, and providing what is comfortable for each particular palate. Our wine list has a balance between iconic, contemporary, and emerging winemakers, between small and big producers, between traditional and modern winemaking techniques. Whether organic, biodynamic or natural viticulture, grape varieties known or unknown, whether old world or new world (with a generous helping from our beautiful motherland, Italy), at Brunello we will always offer balance.

There's one area of our list that is yet to find balance, and as such, we give our support to the women who have established their presence in the wine industry, both in Australia and abroad. We acknowledge those who've gone before us in the wine industry, those who have tilled and kept the land on which every one of our wines is produced, and in a particular way we acknowledge the Ngunnawal people, the traditional custodians of the land that we here at Brunello are privileged to call our home in wine.

Most importantly, our wine list sits in balance with our contemporary-Italian menu, crafted by Head Chef Leonardo de Marchi. We seek balance in our set-menu wine-pairing experience via our Enomatic System, whilst also allowing our patrons to choose their own adventure with an Enomatic card available at every table. Whether coming into wine and dine, or just popping in to grab a drink with family and friends, we trust that we can find balance together.

I like to think of a wine like a person. We change with age, and we're culturally influenced by the place where we're born and raised, as a result, in a diverse mingling afternoon or evening, it's a pleasure to listen to different stories from all over the world, from different ages and culture. It's great to find out what we have in common and what keeps us unique.

These wines are the same, they are from all over the globe and thus, have different traditions, and, like us (or many of us), they gain wisdom with age. Some of them age better, still in a good shape and strength, others less so. Nonetheless, they're able to tell interesting stories if you pay attention.

Sit, relax, and listen to the stories these bottles have to say...

Giordano Vacca

DRY SHERRY & FRIENDS (60 ml)

Sherry is a fortified wine produced in the region of Jerez de la Frontera in southern Spain. It is made from white grapes, primarily the Palomino grape, and is fortified with brandy, which increases its alcohol content and helps to preserve the wine. Sherry wines come in several styles, ranging from dry to sweet. The driest style is Fino, which is aged under a layer of yeast called flor and has a pale, straw-like color. Manzanilla is a similar style to Fino but is produced in the coastal town of Sanlucar de Barrameda and is said to have a slightly salty taste due to its proximity to the sea. Other styles of Sherry include Amontillado, which is darker and richer than Fino and has a nutty flavor; Oloroso, which is dark and has a richer, more full-bodied flavor; and Pedro Ximenez (PX), which is the sweetest style of Sherry and is made from sun-dried grapes. Sherry is often served chilled as an aperitif or dessert wine.

At Brunello, we preserve the quality of our wine by the glass utilizing the Coravin System.

Coravin is an award-winning preservation system that allows us to pour premium wines without removing the cork or allowing air into the bottle. The wine in the bottle will not spoil and can be enjoyed within several months without compromising its quality.

ENOMATIC – Wine Serving System

Enomatic Wine Serving Systems is a tool to satisfy increasingly wine 9llá9siastic and connoisseur customers by allowing them freedom of tasting without constraints, thanks to a flexible, innovative system that lets consumers choose and taste the amount they want of the labels they pick. At Brunello we offer three different tasting sizes starting from 45, 75 and 90 ml.

How does Enomatic preserve the wine?

The answer is Argon! Argon gas is a noble gas that is used to protect wine from oxidation. When wine is exposed to air, oxygen can react with the wine's components, causing it to spoil and lose its flavor. This is why winemakers and wine enthusiasts use argon gas as a protective measure. Argon gas is chemically inert, meaning that it does not react with other chemicals. When argon gas is injected into a wine bottle, it forms a layer on top of the wine, creating a barrier between the wine and the air. This layer of argon gas prevents oxygen from coming into contact with the wine, thereby minimising the wine's exposure to oxidation.

How to use the Enomatic:

- 1. Choose a wine currently on display and insert your Enomatic wine card into the card reader located on the front of the unit. The card will automatically be detected and the Enomatic system will activate.*
- 2. Once you have selected your wine, place your wine glass under the dispenser spout and choose your desired wine size by pressing the corresponding button. The Enomatic system will pour the exact amount of wine you have selected.*
- 3. When you are finished with your wine selection, remove your glass from under the dispenser spout and retrieve your Enomatic wine card from the card reader.*
- 4. Enjoy your wine!*

At Brunello, we want to create an amazing wine tasting experience. If you're lucky enough to be the first one spotting an "empty bottle", you can ask our Sommeliers to replace that bottle with your favourite wine amongst the many that we have.

Potentially, every wine is by the glass at Brunello!

CLONAKILLA

Clonakilla

In 1971, three individuals planted vines in the countryside surrounding Canberra, entirely independently of each other. One of them was Dr John T. O. Kirk, who with his wife and six sons established Clonakilla Vineyard and Winery in Murrumbateman. As Chief Winemaker, John's 4th born son, Tim Kirk, brought the family business into the spotlight. By championing an elegant, cool climate style that has gained international acclaim, today Clonakilla is considered among the nations greatest wineries. This page is dedicated to Clonakilla's impact on the Australian Wine Industry and celebrates the wines that we are privileged to share with you from this iconic producer.

FRANCIACORTA

Franciacorta DOCG is a sparkling wine that takes its name from the Franciacorta region, a hilly terrain on the southern end of the Lake Iseo, Lombardy in northern Italy. It is made using the traditional method (Methode Champenoise) and is one of the finest sparkling wines in Italy and all around the world. Franciacorta wine is produced from Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, and Pinot Bianco grapes, which are carefully selected and handpicked, and only the best grapes are used to make the wine. These wines are known for their fine bubbles, creamy texture, and crisp acidity. The wine is aged for a minimum of 18 months on its lees, which gives it a complex and nuanced flavor profile.

SKIN CONTACT

Skin contact wine, also known as orange wine or amber wine, is a type of wine that is made by fermenting white grapes with their skins, similar to the process used for red wine production. The term “skin contact” refers to the extended period of time during which the grape skins are left in contact with the juice. Unlike traditional white wine production, where the grape skins are immediately separated from the juice, skin contact wine allows the juice to absorb pigments, tannins, and flavors from the skins, resulting in a wine with an amber or orange hue. This extended contact with the skins also gives the wine a distinctive texture, often described as more robust and tannic than typical white wines. The length of skin contact can vary, ranging from a few days to several months, depending on the winemaker’s desired style and flavor profile. Even though this term refers often to white wines (or orange), Rosé wines are made in a similar way using black grapes as opposed to whites.

NEBBIOLO

Nebbiolo is a red grape variety that is primarily grown in the Piedmont region of North-western Italy, particularly in the Langhe area which includes the towns of Barolo and Barbaresco. It is also grown in a few other regions of Italy and in other parts of the world, but it is most widely known for its use in producing some of Italy's most renowned wines. Wines made from Nebbiolo grapes are known for their complexity, depth, and tannic structure, which can make them a bit challenging in their youth but also allows them to age gracefully for many years. They typically exhibit flavors and aromas of red fruits such as cherries and raspberries, as well as earthy and floral notes, such as violets and roses. They can also have hints of tobacco, leather, and tar, which are particularly prominent in wines that have been aged for longer. Nebbiolo is a fascinating, love-it-or-hate-it grape variety that produces some of the most complex and ageworthy wines in the world. It is particularly interesting to see how the wines changes from the different regions and sub-regions, have you found your favourite Nebbiolo yet?

SUPERTUSCANS

Supertuscans wines originated in the 1970s as a response to the strict winemaking regulations in place in Tuscany at the time. These regulations dictated which grape varieties could be used to produce certain types of wine, as well as how the wines could be aged and labelled. Many winemakers in Tuscany felt that these regulations were limiting their ability to create high-quality wines that could compete with those from other regions of Italy and around the world. As a result, some winemakers began to experiment with non-traditional and international grape varieties and winemaking techniques, such as aging their wines in small oak barrels. These wines, which did not conform to the strict regulations of traditional Tuscan wines, came to be known as “Supertuscans.” The term was first coined by wine critic Robert Parker in the 1980s, who was impressed by the quality and unique character of these wines. Today, Supertuscans are recognized as some of the finest and most sought-after wines produced in Italy. They are highly regarded for their quality, complexity, and unique character, and are enjoyed by wine enthusiasts and collectors around the world.

SANGIOVESE (...mainly)

Italian Sangiovese is primarily grown in the central regions of Tuscany and Umbria, where it is the most widely planted grape. It is also grown in other parts of Italy, as well as in other wine-producing regions of the world. Sangiovese is a versatile grape that can produce a wide range of wine styles, from light and fruity to full-bodied and tannic. It is known for its bright acidity, which gives its wines a refreshing and food-friendly character. Sangiovese wines typically exhibit flavors and aromas of cherries, strawberries, and other red fruits, as well as earthy and spicy notes such as leather, tobacco, and cinnamon. The quality and style of Sangiovese wines can vary widely depending on where the grapes are grown and how they are vinified. In Tuscany, Sangiovese is the primary grape used in the production of Chianti, Brunello di Montalcino, and other esteemed wines. The quality of these wines is heavily influenced by the terroir, or the specific combination of soil, climate, and other environmental factors in which the grapes are grown.

BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO

Brunello di Montalcino, from which we take our name, is one of Italy's most revered and sought-after wines, renowned for its exceptional quality, complexity, and aging potential. Produced exclusively from Sangiovese Grosso grapes grown in the hills around the town of Montalcino in Tuscany, Brunello di Montalcino reflects the unique terroir of its origins and the meticulous craftsmanship of its winemakers.

Brunello di Montalcino has a rich history that dates back to the late 19th century and today, it is a wine that is revered by wine lovers around the world. It is made using strict production regulations that mandate the use of 100% Sangiovese Grosso grapes and require the wine to be aged for a minimum of four years, with at least two years spent in oak barrels. The resulting wine is complex and full-bodied, with flavors and aromas of dark fruit, leather, tobacco, and spices, and a firm structure of tannins and acidity that allows it to age for decades. While Brunello di Montalcino is often difficult to find, it remains a wine that is held in high regard by collectors, sommeliers, and wine enthusiasts alike. Its unique combination of terroir, grape variety, and winemaking techniques makes it a true expression of the best that Tuscany has to offer.
